Dear Brewster:

How proud your mother would be of you and your Internet Archive, and doubtless your father is as well. I just read the item in the Times (enclosed), and I, too, am proud of you, if only by richochet in Peggy's behalf. You've turned out so well and continue to do such useful and interesting things. As a writer, irrespective of the Author's Guild position, I think your nonprofit digitizing of library collections will be a good thing for universities, scientists, scholars, writers and society as a whole. Bravo! As a man and a son, your mother was proud of you, and in light of your present accomplishments, would be even moreso now.

I hope you and Katherine and the children are thriving. Do please give my regards to Alison and Grace, and to your father too.

Congratulations!

Abe
